

Banquet for the Workers

In late April one year, the respected Comrade Kim Jong Un looked round the completed workers' hostel of the Pyongyang Kim Jong Suk Textile Mill.

In the canteen, he said that it was really wonderful, that it looked better than any banquet hall or wedding ceremony hall, and that a grand banquet for the workers should be arranged there on the occasion of May Day that was near at hand.

After looking round the kitchen and outdoor resting place, he told the accompanying officials once again that a lavish banquet should be held for the workers in the canteen on the coming May Day, and that he would send the spread.

Thus, a grand banquet was held for the workers in the workers' hostel in celebration of May Day that year.
