

A Factory Visited With Pleasure

One October day in 2019, the respected Comrade Kim Jong Un visited the Samjiyon Bog Bilberry Beverage Factory.

To him, officials of the factory said: People who visit our factory say that they cannot believe that they are in a factory as it is totally automatized and germ-free and plenty of raw materials are available for it.

Then Kim Jong Un looked round the integrated control room. While looking at the screen showing the factory's integrated production system, he said: Though it is a large factory, none of its production processes requires much workforce. It is operated with a small number of employees. Such is an effective factory.

After looking round the factory that day, he stressed that the factory had a bright prospect and that he was convinced once again of it.
