

A Newly-built Pavilion

One November day in 2019, the respected Comrade Kim Jong Un visited the construction site of the Yangdok Hot Spring Resort, which was nearing its inauguration.

He looked round several places of the resort, giving instructions on stepping up preparations for its inauguration. Then he went to see the ski runs.

After looking at the third run for a while on its summit, he told an official that a pavilion should be built on the summit of the run, saying: Many people would come up to the summit of the third run as it is gently sloped. A two-storeyed resting pavilion should be built in the open space on the summit to match the surrounding environment. It should provide various services.

When looking round the pavilion on the summit of Tae Peak a few minutes ago, he paid close attention to ensuring the convenience of the people.

He went on to say: The Yangdok Hot Spring Resort is a facility our Party has built to promote the people's health and wellbeing. So it should be flawless in all aspects.

Thanks to the affection of Comrade Kim Jong Un, who strives to provide the people with a civilized and happy life, another recreation building was set up in the resort.
